

Personal Reflection

Love for one another is a debt that is never paid off. At times loving others seems like an insurmountable debt. What is our resource for paying this debt?

What does a lack of love for one another reveal about our relationship with God?

Selfishness always leads to relational sin—sins against one another. What prevents you from loving others sacrificially?

In response to God’s Word, what is your prayer?

Thoughts/Questions/Prayer Response:

■ ■ ■ ■ ■
Memory Verse: Romans 13:8

“Let no debt remain outstanding, except the continuing debt to love one another, for he who loves his fellowman has fulfilled the law.”

For VerseMinder go to <http://soundliving.org/verseminder.shtml>